Computer Based Games from ABC Company in our school

gr(a) Our school was offered free trial of lex computer games for English Learners. This is my report on the results of this little experiment.
Gr(a) 1. Participants. We took students from 10 and 11 gr(a) forms. There were 40 students from 10 form lex divided in 4 groups, and 30 students from 11 form, divided in 3 groups.
2. Type of work. 4 groups from 10 form were G(a) doing their work with teacher. That was done incase some students didn't understand the task or had very big problems with their work. But for 3 groups from 11 form I Comm.T. offered this task as a homework. I (K1) thought they are smart enough to do this work by themselves.
3. Area of studies. Work of 10 form included new log material - grammar. That is one of the reasons (K1) I decided to help students from 10 form.
gr(a) Grammar included sequence of tenses, indirect Gr lex questions, modal verbs, articles. Everything was new to my students because this material log is usually being taught in the beginning (K1) of 11 form. But work for 11 form was based gr(a) on vocabulary - material I've already Lex taught them. Vocabulary tasks included good St. knowing of idioms, phrasal verbs, synonyms and antonyms. I believes that students from 11 form will do this work just fine

YOU CAN USE THE REVERSE SIDE

4. Exercises. 11 form students got multiple choices, which made their work even easier. 10 form students work was bit harder, because they had to fill in the gaps without having choices.

5. Test results. In the end all groups did a splendid job doing their work. There were very few mistakes in both forms.

6. Opinion of the students. 10 students from 10 form found this game quite exciting and they want to do more works like this. But 20 students from 11 form found this game boring and easy. I would recommend making it bit harder, they are 11 form after all.
