Report. I Introduction.

The aim of my report is to assess the information concerning computer games for English learners. In order to prepare this report, I participated in the experiement sp. carried out in October.

Groups.

40 students involved in this trial were divided into 4 groups. As for 3 form 11 groups, sp. students were studying on their own at home or gr. as an afterschool activity. 4 groups of year 10 students worked collaboratively in class with a teacher.

Area of studies.

gr. Younger students were studying grammar with new information presented (including articles, indirect speech and other aspects). Participants from form 11 were targeting at drilling the material they had already been acquainted with.

Result.

These games have had a beneficial effect on the general result level. It can be noticed that all of the students managed to expand their knowledge, doing better at tests.

10p.

Conclusion.

~~Considering~~ Taking into consideration my report, there is no doubt in the efficiency of these computer based games that are produced by the ABC company. However, even though considered ~~as~~ by 10 form students as entertaining, these games were found dull by older participants. As a solution, a new improved interface should be introduced so that general public would be more interested in this particular way of learning.
