The given charts illustrate the amount of time college and full-time university students spent on different business a day, in 2014 and 2015. Having taken a quick look at the presented data, we can see that the most time-consuming activity was sleeping. In contrast, grooming was what students did the least in 2014 and 2015. Now let's take a ~~look at~~ closer look at the charts.

To begin with, I am going to outline some of the similarities. As it has already been mentioned, the largest amount of ~~time~~ hours was spent on sleeping. However, the slumber time substituted in 2015, by around 1.5 hours a day (8.6 in 2014 and 7.1 in the following year). Also, resting and ~~doing~~ sports doing sports was what the students did the most ~~sleeping aside~~ throughout both years (sleeping aside). Nonetheless, in 2015 the number caught on, it being around 3.8 hours a day in 2014 and 5.6 hours a day in 2015. I would also like to point out that the time spent on grooming <sup>a day</sup> was remarkably short (42 minutes a day in 2014 and half an hour in 2015).

To ~~present~~ <sup>point</sup> the full picture, I am going to cover some of the changes that took place in 2015. For example, the time spent on what is listed as "other" plummeted greatly (2.3 hours a day in 2014 compared to 0.5 in the next year). Furthermore, students started working for 18 minutes longer on average, while cutting their time spent on educational activities by one hour less a day.

As we can see the average pattern stayed the same with only detail's changings.
